Hey There

Well, I must say I feel what you want to do here is nothing less than GENIUS! There are so many people out of work including myself and there are thousands who don't have the know how or even the want to do research on finding work etc., there is so much you could make out of this idea/company and if there is something you would like me to help you with I would be happy to do so. You definitely are in the right place and the right time! You are very good at writing as well as putting things together in this area I say GO FOR IT! As far as Florida if I recall correctly you had gone down that road on real estate stuff. Just my input on that. This really picks me up and gets me wanting to work up a company again or close too we both have excellent qualities I just tend to sell myself short but what can I say.

I hope that you have a wonderful weekend keep that brain going and your fingers typing putting thoughts down then it can be pulled all together!

Hugs,
Krystle
