

A morning of inspiration, to my friend, Gordon Kraft

Holographic Computation

February 26, 2010

How many levels of compatibility are needed to assure a positive match?

Depending on the qualifications input and possible scenarios for the match, one must ascertain that the possibility of success is based on the actual data that is updated and analyzed each time the Holographic Computation is accessed as a third dimension.

The concept is based on the ability to address not only the business success but addresses the personal needs of the individual to build confidence and understand the needs of the business in order to succeed.

Let's take a look at what a business needs in order to meet the goals set for a specific objective, is it personal or a group focus. For instance, if one has the beginning and the end outlined, then all that is left is to fill in the between, getting from one point to another. This is the third dimension of what is needed to accomplish the objective.

The nature of holographic imaging is based on static electricity conducive to human intervention and manipulation.

Define the idea, identify the purpose and rationale, create the beginning and end points and you will then begin your trek to meet your objective.

What is the greatest commodity in the world, people of course, a business is operated by the vision of the principal, a person, and people hire people, so it is the engagement that produces the results. But the real challenge is precision and balance, is it not?

Chris King

Domus Room