Retrain the unemployed asap.

I have previously submitted my ideas on how to help those of you that are unemployed in my "How to build a Entrepreneur Incubator" Red Herring discussion.

I believe that the current economic downturn will result in the need to re-educate America's workforce from the Auto Industry and other non technical employment to utilize the growing application of the American Technology Industry. I do not expect that everyone will become a daily PC user, yet the skill will be required in most new employment. Therefore I have promoted building "Entrepreneur Incubators" around the US to assist in the re-education of millions of our workers.

Please visit www.aiengines.com and contribute your vision and recommendations in the "Entrepreneur Incubators (NEW)" section. If you share my passion on this topic, email me to discuss.

WE need Interactive Computer Based Training courseware now.

Using the Internet is our best way to teach the many.

This recommendation will result in jobs for all of us... Think of the Social Media that can be generated...

Corporate Funding, Government Funding, International Funding are going to be required. And many of you can use this idea to give back what you have to the benefit of your family and friends, and in truth the rest of the world. There is a pony in this pile and money to be made as a result.

America is well suited to accomplish this mission and generate courseware from Farming to Aircraft Repair, Automotive Repair, Bookkeeping, Teaching, Digital Libraries, CBT, limitless new education, etc. This idea will rebound America, we just need a few friends with similar thoughts and skills... Because you can do this from your home, tent, car, coffee shop, library, school, university... just add some WiFi for your Internet connection. Take the iPhone, Amazon Kindle2, Playstation 3, XBOX, Wii, and your PC/MAC to a new level... AND U2.

Gordon, I agree with your comments. I am actually promoting retraining in the field of transportation and logistics, which is a business sector that makes up 9.5% of GDP and always has a need for good people. I believe with a number of people that we can retrain people successfully in a host of positions for the logistics industry.

Let me know of any CBT Courseware that you may have or be aware of.

CBT Courseware Tools? Like the old Adobe Authorware...

I would like to add a CBT Store to AiEngines.

Stop following

Just read your posting. As a business coach, I see this dilemma constantly even when there is no downturn.

It's an attitude issue, much like marketing, that gets funded after the "other" bills get paid. This must change and become a priority to train and cross train and study what's coming down the Autobahn!

I would enjoy speaking with you re: CBT Courseware.
Great topic.
